

Limited-Term Driver's License and Identification Card and Eligibility Requirements

Federal regulations say a state may issue "a temporary or limited-term" driver's license or ID card only to non-US citizens who are lawfully present in this country. The Texas Department of Public Safety issues such temporary licenses and ID cards. Noncitizens who knowingly make false statements or claim that they are a citizen to register to vote are subject to fines and could be imprisoned for up to five years.
